About The Workshop:

This workshop has something for everyone! It is an exciting series that focuses on “integration instead of isolation” within required curriculum. Teachers learn strategies for integrating reading, writing and research into every aspect of the school day as they make Dinah Zike’s three-dimensional graphic organizers that focus on basic skills and higher level thinking while teaching content area subjects. Participants will view projects, reports and classroom work based upon Dinah Zike’s strategies and examples made by teachers and students throughout Ohio. They will also make numerous examples of graphic organizers, manipulatives, teacher-directed materials and student reporting formats that can be used in their own classrooms, regardless of the subject taught. This workshop presents techniques for planning, implementation and organization of integration while keeping in mind the diverse needs of students performing at many different academic levels. Teachers will leave this series with graphic organizers that are research-based and can be used immediately.

About The Presenters:

The workshop will be facilitated by Marilyn Parkes and Steve Hall. Both Marilyn and Steve have been selected by Dinah Zike to be nationally certified Dinah Zike Academy (DZA) faculty. Marilyn and Steve received their local faculty certification in 2006 and their state and regional certification in 2008. Steve is also a member of the DZA Board. Marilyn and Steve will utilize their DZA training and their years of experience as classroom teachers to present participants with many ideas for the use of 3D graphic organizers as part of standards-based learning.
